How Med Matrix can help your patients

Matrix detoxification and regeneration treatment with Med Matrix have been designed to relieve the soft tissue from metabolic stressors, toxins, and pathogens. A session with Med Matrix also unblocks and reinforces inner healing systems and processes within the body, strengthening the functioning of immune systems and bringing greater regulation to all major systems of the human body.

Another plus is that this treatment is the ideal preparation for all subsequent therapies because, after this thorough detox and rejuvenation therapy, the innate healing capacity of the body is unblocked.

The primary therapeutic modalities offered in the Med Matrix are:

during the treatment, activating the acupuncture points quickly, and with more precision and coverage than traditional acupuncture.

in the tissue that brings metabolic waste products and other tissue toxins to the surface, to be removed by the lymphatic system.

the pressure off the immune system.

Rhythmic direct current treatment

A weakened matrix leads to organ cells becoming diseased, and chronically sick matrix tissue has an excessive negative charge. This treatment re-polarizes the matrix, normalizing anabolic/catabolic metabolism and enabling targeted elimination of toxins.

Electro-acupuncture

This therapy uses a small amount of electricity to enhance the benefits of the traditional therapeutic treatment of acupuncture. A small electrode gives a slight vibration or soft hum

Petechial suction massage

Petechial suction massage uses the ancient treatment method known as cupping to break up muscular tension and tissue induration. It also stimulates blood circulation. The suction electrode of Med Matrix generates low pressure

System Information Therapy

Targeted at neutralizing pathological energy fields within the body, this therapy takes the biological information of toxins and waste products released from the matrix which are passed back to the patient as therapeutic signals, enabling the self-healing powers to be activated, taking

Bioresonance

Bioresonance is a form of holistic diagnosis and therapy that can read the energy wavelengths coming from the cells within the body. These frequencies carry information regarding the body's systems used for non-invasive diagnosis. It can also be used to send signals that can improve the body's self-healing capacity.
