The 8 unique features of Test Expert Plus modality

30 years of clinical research and physician feedback integrated into the best in class Vega Test Method

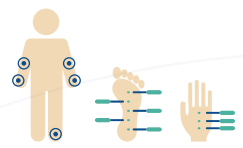

Metabolism regulation therapy

Through the SRT program card, a targeted functional evaluation of the five-element system (from ancient medicine), determination of metabolism, and measurement of energy regulation is possible. Using this report, organ-specific metabolism regulation therapy can be carried out via homeopathic test and therapy information.

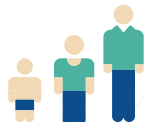

Meridian status measurement

For the meridian status, defined meridian points (acupuncture points) on the hands and feet are measured and recorded in a predefined order. By comparing the measurement values for the left and right sides, it is possible to provide detailed insights and guidance to decide therapeutic approaches (meridian axis).

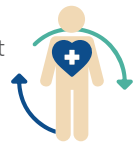

Scope of application

Test Expert Plus can be used on children and infants since it does not cause any pain or have any contraindications. With this efficiency as well as the cost-effective test, its use is essential for daily practice.

Biological index

The biological index is a unique measure that refers to the aging of soft, interstitial connective tissue or matrix, also referred to as the 'basic system'. The function of the mesenchyme reflects the patient's biological age, i.e., their level of aging/ deterioration. This unique index provides a very comprehensive diagnostic overview of the overall health condition of the client.

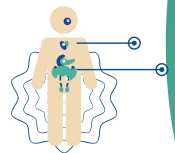

Energy screening

With the fully automatic energy screening, Test Expert Plus also provides a summary measurement on the energetic situation, regulatory ability, and potential areas of inflammation or dysfunction within the whole body in just 20 minutes.

Pulse current therapy

Locating dysregulated organ systems using micro-stimulation electricity enables a bio-individualized assessment and evaluation of the patient's health challenges.
